Drive Me Crazy

ABOUT THE FILM:

A woman, a car and an empty seat... but never for long. A tragic love chronicle conducted by traffic light. Two women in a car, waiting at the traffic lights. Each time there's another key moment in their relationship. First they sing along with the radio, then silently in love. Their love grows cold as winter sets in. What will spring bring for them?

ABOUT THE DIRECTOR:

Kim Wyns recently shot the experimental short Plier with Karen Vanderborght. Her graduation film Ochtend: Liefde in 4 Aktes (2001) was selected for more than 35 film festivals and was broadcast on Flemish TV channel Canvas. After graduating from Sint Lukas art school in Brussels, she worked as a location manager on many films, TV series and commercials.
